

95 Revolutions Crew Information

Crew

In such early stages of pre-production (and whilst the film is still seeking both producers and funding) it is difficult to talk about the crew of the film, but I think it is important to make it clear that a smaller production crew would be the best way to tackle the script. There is a huge pool of talented crew members in the UK so finding the right balance of someone who will enhance and create a great film, as well as be financially viable, is not something that I predict will be too difficult. Below I have listed the key production roles, without assistants and runners, that I would hopefully have for the production. The production is predicted to last 21 days.
